The Ex-Chief Takes Action!

Over $6,000 Balm is Required to

Smoothen The Troubled Waters

On Monday morning of this week, the town of Blairmore was served with a writ, claiming $1039.28 special damages for wages up to and including December 31st, 1914, $5,000.00 general damages, costs of action and such further and other relief as the court may direct."

Such is the amount of claim of James Robert Irwin, for so-called wrongful dismissal from the position of chief of police of the Town of Blairmore.

Messrs. McDonald, McKenzie & Co., of Macleod, have been retained by Mr. Irwin, while H. Roberts of Coleman, is his local representative.

The result of the proceedings will be interesting to all who have watched the doings of the 1913 town council.

It is not known yet as to whether the town will consider it worth while employing the services of a solicitor.

Golden Wedding
At Beaver Mines

The most enjoyable evening ever spent at Beaver Mines was Friday night, March 13th, the occasion being the celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William McCulloch, of this town, and late of Coleman.

Owing to the popularity of the old couple, about 250 guests gathered at the Pioneer Hall for the celebration.

The Rev. Hamilton, of Beaver Mines, performed the marriage ceremony, after which John G. Prentiss, who was elected to the chair, introduced the aged couple to the guests in a few appropriate remarks, in part as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen—You have asked me to take the chair on this occasion. While I consider this a great honor, as well as a privilege, I am sure there are many of you in the hall much better qualified than your humble servant. We have met here this evening to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. William McCulloch, who are so well known to you that it is scarcely necessary for me to repeat that they are probably the most highly respected couple in Alberta today.

It gives me a great pleasure to introduce the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch, and in their names to extend to you all at most hearty welcome. (Cheers). I am pleased to see so many happy faces here this evening. As an extension of this kind we have the pleasure of meeting many old friends and making acquaintance with others. Indeed, it is the privilege of a lifetime to have an invitation to attend a golden wedding. I will not tire you with words, as there is still a good time ahead of us tonight. Let us before closing allow me to give a short resume of the life of our guests of honor.

Mr. McCulloch, who is now seventy-two years of age, was born in Scotland. He was one of the first miners' leaders, having worked with Hector McDonald and others in organizing the miners' union of Scotland. At that time he was also a pioneer in the co-operative movement, having been chairman of the Larbert Co-operative Society, one of the very first co-operative organizations. As you all know what co-operation has done for your fellow man, I think you will admit that Mr. McCulloch's work in connection with the miners' co-operative movement is sufficient to call him a pioneer in our noble friend here tonight. Mr. McCulloch has also been a leading light in athletics, and a very talented musician. (Cheers).

Mr. McCulloch also hails from Scotland, and is over seventy years of age. She is one of the most genial and kind-hearted old ladies ever born and is known to everybody as "Grandma McCulloch." Besides this she is a noted nurse and has probably been present at more births than any medical doctor in Alberta. The old lady is known from Land to Johnnie Great's house. (Cheers).

Mr. McCulloch made a very neat and touching reply, after which the old couple were placed in a ring on the floor and all joined in singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The health of the old folks was then drunk and the floor was cleared for dancing. The old couple took part in the "bride's reel."

Mr. Thomas Moon, of Beaver Mines, and Miss McLeudin, of Coleman, as well as W. McCulloch, Jr., of Bellevue, and W. McCulloch, Sr., favored the audience with songs during the intervals. Dancing was kept up until 2 a.m.

Refreshments, fruit and candies were served at intervals during the night, and the singing of "And Lang Syne" brought the merriment in the history of Beaver Mines to a close.

Many people journeyed from Coleman, Hillcrest, Bellevue, Blairmore, Pincher Creek and other towns to the wedding.

Building a Geological Museum Collection

The department of geology of the University of Alberta has been organized only a year and a half and yet it already possesses collections which equal those in many larger and older universities.

A large part of the mineral, rock, fossil and ore collections have been presented to the department by private individuals, other universities, institutions and mining companies. The greatest credit and appreciation is due to Mr. W. F. Ferrier, of the Geological Survey of Canada, who has not only given a large suite of minerals from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and another member of the department of geology in the same institution and a friend of Dr. Allan has just shipped two large boxes of material. Some time ago a suite of minerals and rocks were received from the geological department of Harvard University. Iron ore specimens, weighing from 30 to 75 lbs. each, have been received from the Anticosti Iron Co., the Canada Iron Mines Co., and from the Port Arthur district. Gold bearing iron has been received from the Nickel Plate Mine at Hedley, B.C. Further collections are on their way from Tufts' College, Amherst College, New Jersey Zinc Mine Co., and the W.S. National Museum at Washington.

THE FORTY YEAR TEST

An article must have exceptional merit to survive for a period of forty years. Chamberlain's Chest Ready-to-Use Coffers were introduced in 1812. From a small beginning it has grown in favor and popularity until it has attained a world wide reputation. You will find nothing better for a cough or cold. Try it and you will understand why it is a favorite after a period of more than forty years. It only gives relief; it cures. For sale by all dealers.

CHLORIC STOMACH TROUBLE CURED

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. It is not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and power. "I have had a 'cure' about one year ago," says P. H. Beck, of Wakles, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." For sale by all dealers.

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., Mar. 20, 1914

At Victoria, the town council has passed a resolution requiring the firemen to hold a practice once a month in order to equip themselves for service. Such a step would be a wise one for the Blairmore council to adopt.

When Andrew Broder's anti-cigarette bill was under discussion in the Ottawa house recently, and the galleries were filled with women who were lending their moral support to the measure, Mr. Burnham, M.P. for West Peterboro, made a speech in which he said it was up to the women to reform their own absurd style of dress before they asked men to reform their habits.

The success of the hockey club's ball this week was considerably marred by the fact that those in charge of the affairs were responsible for the importation of an orchestra which was far inferior to the local combination. We know of a number of persons who generally attend such social functions, but who openly declare that they will never again attend an affair which is depending upon local support, and whose management are as narrow-minded as to feel disposed to favor the outsider.

It is quite a foregone conclusion that the majority of the ratepayers of the Town of Blairmore are determined that the fire hall should be erected on some location between Sixth and Seventh avenues, and during the past week we have had visits from a number of residents west of Sixth Avenue who strongly declare their disapproval of the idea of locating our municipal building west of that point. There is really no necessity of putting the question to a vote of the majority town. However, it is just another case where the public will be obliged to voice themselves at their own expense.

It has been rumored around town that a system of discrimination is being practiced by those in charge of the pound, and that cases have been known where animals belonging to certain citizens were impounded, while others belonging to friends of the impounders have been allowed to remain outside until the owners are given an opportunity to take them away and thereby save the impounding fee. Another rumor is to the effect that persons, including vegetable scrap and other articles, are being sold around in the neighborhood of the jail to attract the cattle to that locality, where they may be easily captured and imprisoned. We trust the above rumors are not true, for if they are the public certainly have a right to object.

Whatever is the real cause of all this financial depression that we hear so much about, one thing we know: in Western Canada there has been too much gambling in land. The effects of this gambling reach farther than we generally think. In mining towns, the men are short of cash, and hundreds of them have the same excuse—they're paying out their wages in town lots. Rich men in the cities are doing the same thing. Every man who has extra money to pay for the few extra farms he has bought. Cities and towns are even paying for real estate. Nearly all these ambitious attempts of town councils to make cities out of villages are the outcome of real estate "boasting." We are all paying a little extra here and there for store goods, because the storekeepers are paying a little extra rent for their stores to someone who paid a little more for the store than the store was worth. Wherever you turn, you see men moving into one big stream that leads to the real estate sharks. The end of it all is that this money goes to men who have not earned it. Money is round, and should go round. Men who get a dollar should pass back something in exchange—work, wealth, produce of some kind. Ten men can play poker all night, and no matter how much money the winner takes in, there is no real wealth taken at the table when they began. The losers must earn their losses next day. If they are still in debt to the winner, all the worse for them. The men who are getting our money now, are the men who "sat in" when we were the real estate game we've been playing so long. We pulled out in debt to them, and they're still taking gambling money. We are producing something; they are not—Carmania Sun.

MARRIED—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunlop, Hillcrest, on March 12th, 1914, William H. McCulloch to Miss Elizabeth Speed, both of Bellevue. The Rev. W. H. Irwin performed the ceremony.

The Young Peoples' Society recently formed at Frank is becoming of unusual interest to the young people of the town. Considerable interest is taken in the gymnasium connected with the society, and we learn that although it was intended to be a strictly Frank organization, it is difficult to refuse the numerous requests made for membership by young people of neighboring towns. Such an organization is important to Frank and deserving of every support from its citizens and we would like to see a similar movement undertaken at both Blairmore and Bellevue. Such a place is necessary, if only to provide a means of profitable recreation and amusement to counteract the many degrading attractions that are known to exist. In connection with such a society, a library and reading room could be conducted, and classes could be held for the benefit of those needing education. This latter might be carried out to considerable advantage to the foreigners, who are generally classed as undesirables, simply because they lack knowledge of our dialect. Concerts and entertainments could be held from time to time which should prove of the greatest interest to the people of the town.

Now is the time when our citizens should resolve to shoulder and back and encourage every movement put forward for the industrial advancement of the Crows' Nest Pass. Our interests are certainly being drawn before the eyes of capital, and there is not the slightest reason to doubt but that before the end of 1914 there will be such a revolution in financial and industrial circles as will place the Crows' Nest Pass in the foreground and create a new vigor which in a very short time will redound to the complete recovery from the present crisis. We have the resources all around us which deserve our every effort. Let us try to discourage the futile efforts of the pessimist and do our share in carrying on the campaign which will have the support not only of our fellow citizens and neighboring towns, but of all those who have capital to invest and see the great advantages and possibilities for the future.

Tango-Mad

A New York paper says the United States has gone mad over tango. Every hotel in that city except the Waldorf-Astoria, and every restaurant, makes tango teas and tango evenings, a regular feature of its routine. Asked why the dance was so popular, the proprietor of one of the leading hotels said it was due to a peculiar effect which the dance has upon those who participate in it. This effect he describes as some thing similar to that of a narcotic, and he says, he has seen many society women after dancing look and act just as if they were under the influence of a drug. There is nothing new in this, for we all know how, by certain savage or semi-savage dances the feelings are wrought up to an ecstasy approaching and often reaching frenzy. It is herein that the danger of the tango lies, and it is for no mere prudish reason that so many people disconcentrate it. It is a bad dance; not necessarily immoral, but bad in its effect upon those who take part in it. The manner in which it has seized the people of the United States so that every other form of amusement, even theatre-going where it is not danced, is something to be thankful for, it gives reason to hope that the craze will die out as quickly as it arose—Colonial.

THE ENTERPRISE, BLAIRMORE, ALTA.

SHE'S A WONDER.

She's a woman small and cheery, Telling long, yet seldom weary, If a man may judge by what he sees, She is neat and quite the lady, Still unwed, but not old maid, She is slender, and she always tries to please.

She is crisp of speech and forceful, I am sure that she's resourceful, To depend upon herself she likes, I think, Full of courage, yet demurely, She can meet each moment's need as quick as a flash.

I often call her "Dear sister," When she makes a great endeavor, But at least she never fails, you can be sure.

She has this tact to match her power, Which she uses every hour, And her patience through the ages would endure.

No, she is no queen whose glory Is in the looking stately, And she is not a bold heroine, you'll find, It is not so hard to reach her, She is just a young subscriber, And the world's a better place since Thomas mind.

The Maidens Maid.

It was getting late at night when the servant girl returned from the shop, having various domestic errands to do, the expression of satisfaction to her mistress she cried out suddenly, "There — if I haven't forgot the 'am an' eggs for breakfast?"

"That's a pity," observed the mistress, but added, with kind philosophy, "Never mind, we shall have to manage now. We shall have to manage in the morning with bread and butter, and marmalade." The girl started. "And whar shall I be?" she inquired.

"Well, Ellen, I suppose you've the same as we do," replied the mistress.

"Yes, Mrs. X," responded Ellen, with some severity, "but let me tell you I can't do my work unless I'm properly fed." —Manchester Guardian.

Religious Versus Business.

Two brothers living in southern Illinois run a count store, and they have a large trade in wool, on barter. One of the brothers joined the church and became exceedingly religious. He soon got a habit of talking to his brother about the church and constantly exhorted him and tried to persuade him to join the church.

"Yes, Brother Jim, I know that it must be comforting and altogether helpful to body and soul to be a good church member, but I don't want to join. Just look, you see, Jim, there has got to be somebody here of the firm to weight this year wool."

—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Billing Point.

Mrs. Longwedge—Such a charming husband Mrs. Von Pickle has! So tender after ten years of marriage.

Mr. Longwedge—Quite natural, it would make a ridiculous tenter to be kept in hot water for ten years.—New York Evening Journal.

Force of Habit.

"No matter what trouble he gets into, our neighbor seems to put a good face on the matter."

"That's his business. He's a beauty doctor." —Baltimore American.

—A Cinch.

Howard—In this any advantage in having your best girl highly educated? Coward—Sure thing! No one tries to get her away from you.—Judge.

To Burn.

Bobbie—He cares nothing for wealth, and yet he has money to burn.

Stubbie—No wonder he makes light of it.—Chicago Daily News.

Illusion Gone.

Henn—Do you believe in dreams? Peck—No; I married one. —Towa Topics.

IN CHANCERY.

Selling the Romance of a Much-Misunderstood Institution.

For twenty-five years a lady called "the Marchioness" of the Chancery, or the Redress Society of the National Debt, and presented a little claim for $6,500,000, which she said was in Chancery. And many other persons, shrewdly, known to them, regarding the great legal institution which is unknown to them, touched their lives at many points. The people were merely a deposit for itself.

There are millions—hundreds of millions—in Chancery; but the proportion of the vast amount claimed is comparatively small. Over, eries accounts, the records relating to which do not go back farther than 1720, aggregate more than five million dollars, and the sum per claim, relatively small in value. While, one not—and in all there are about 3,000—is worth less than $250, one may not exceed $750 in value, and only about one-twentieth exceed $5,000.

Substantial sums, however, are frequently recovered from Chancery, but not so frequently as might be expected. In 1853 a claim was successfully made to a fund which was held in court since 1753. There had been a court case in 1804.

Chancery yielded a profit which it had held for 125 years. The amount—$3,500—represented the estate of a lady who was married in 1784, and died in 1853.

Equally singular, but for another reason, were the circumstances connected with a claim made a few years ago. After a series of a few years, a lady had been in Chancery for a comparatively short time, a number of claimants came forward, and it was distributed among them.

General Booth still considers the inauguration of the battle against the traffic, the greatest one ever performed, as epochal in his life. In keeping the battle alive, it was in the early days of the life of the Salvation Army, and while that great work was still in progress, he had participated in the distribution of the funds of the meeting, that Bramwell Booth, as he was then, was acquired.

While Stead was not as lucky, Sevenoaks, of Bromley, Bedf ordshire, however, spent varying periods in Holloway jail; and it is perhaps to the credit of him more than any other man that so successful fight against the helious traffic has been waged.

General Booth still considers the inauguration of the battle against the traffic, the greatest one ever performed, as epochal in his life.

In keeping the battle alive, it was in the early days of the life of the Salvation Army, and while that great work was still in progress, he had participated in the distribution of the funds of the meeting, that Bramwell

Booth discovered that a traffic in young girls existed between England and Belgium as the market for slaves and Belgium as the market. At first he was loath to believe what he heard; but, on further investigation, he found that the traffic hit home in the most terrible heads. England and the continent. His disclosures, however, were of such a nature that the newspapers refused to print them, as they regarded them as the greatest barrier he could encounter. In his perplexity he approached Stead, who at first only laughed, but quickly carried on an investigation of his own, and learned that a traffic such as those described to him by Booth really existed. Stead then decided to throw all the power he held into the battle, and mail Gazette into the propaganda.

When Bramwell Booth asserted that girls of thirteen and even younger were taken from the vagabond mothers and sold into the hands of some desolute nobleman or some wealthy, unfeeling, profligate, he was met with a flat denial. But he had passed a bill raising the age of consent, and providing some penalties for persons who violate the honor of children. Consequently he concluded that to pass such a bill would be to acknowledge the charges against the nasal honor, resisted the bill.

More than once he indignantly denied that any English girl under any circumstances could be induced to sell her own flesh and blood, even they scouted at Bramwell Booth and his claims.

Rebecca Jarrett, a reformed keeper of a disorderly house, confessed that she had purchased many girls of tender years from mothers, and had afterwards sold them in the slave markets.

She said that the prices varied from $25 to $250.

Rebecca Jarrett, dismissed the hand of the law, and the woman who had lent a hand to the traffic, they were published by Stead in his paper.

Convinced that by arguments alone they would not be able to drive the terrible seriousness of the traffic from the minds of the legislators, Bramwell Booth and Stead decided to go to the House of Lords, and their mother, which did them through Jarrett, who represented herself as the dive-keeper of old.

When it was mentioned that this had been done, Stead, Bramwell Booth and Jarrett, along with several others were placed under arrest, and charged with abduction, treason, and conspiracy to overthrow the Government.

Booth was listed in the street, and even the press of that day spoke in bitter words of the "helious trade in human beings."

It was not until 1855 that any concrete efforts were made by the Government to suppress the traffic. In that year, Lord Dalhousie, a member of the committee appointed by the King, reported that the traffic was still in existence.

He said that it "surpassed in art, villainy and rascality any other trade in human beings in any part of the world, ancient or modern."

The war on the traffic, and each year has seen additional laws passed aimed at extinction of the traffic. The most recent law to be passed for the suppression of the traffic was the conspiracy to overthrow the Government on their first conviction of engaging in the traffic.

General Booth, since he stepped into the field, has been beaten by the death of his father has inaugurated a system of lobbying to prevent the passage of legislation that would tend to curb the present most effective law.

"I think that England now leads the world in the suppression of this traffic," said the general recently. "It is not safe to say that we are beaten. He, position, and 'tame the same time help the rest of the world to improve the conditions that exist to the day in hundreds of our large cities throughout the world."

A GREAT INVENTOR.

Telling of the March to Fame of the Commandante Marconi.

It is recorded of Guglielmo Marconi as a child that he walked at an unusually early age, and talked at an unusually late one.

He has retained these early characteristics. Great scientist though he is, he is essentially an open-air person.

The Wireless Wizard has always delighted in swimming and cycling, and a number of his inventions are sporty. Last year he made up his mind, but slow to speak, and even then sparing of words, his father would say, and a quiet and modest gentleman, his mother an Irish lady. As a rule, it is not the men born in affluent circumstances who do the things that matter, but Marconi is an exception.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that as a small boy he spent some time at a school in Scotland. He is still remembered there. For nothing, he refused to make up his handwriting as customarily taught at school. He said it was absurd to make him waste time in learning to write like the repetition of what he was told.

He would work hard at anything that interested him, such as physics, and he was a good student of Latin and Greek grammar and his would not drink. Possibly for this reason he did not stay long at his English school, but eventually got himself engaged by the local peasant as a sorcerer.

Mr. Marconi, of course, has never claimed to be the discoverer of the principles of wireless telegraphy. Herts did that, but it was Marconi who first saw the possibility of using Hertzian waves for telegraphing without wires.

He was young, well-built, full of "life," but he devoted himself to patient study and experiment. It was a great day when he succeeded in sending messages over a distance of 100 feet from his garden to the other end of his father's garden to the other end.

Of his experiences when he brought his invention to England it is said he was bald. He was anything but a show-off, but he was the same time met with incredibility and opposition enough.

However, he was bound to win, and he did. The secret of his success, though inevitable, might have been delayed. As it was, he could afford to wait, and he did, and he waited until that sturdy independence which is so characteristic of him.

Had he been penniless his success, though inevitable, might have been delayed. As it was, he could afford to wait, and he did, and he waited until that sturdy independence which is so characteristic of him.

He has beautiful eyes, large and luminous, of a hazel which in some lights looks grey, in others dark brown.

As the result of an accident he has lost the sight of one eye, but they are both good, and he sees better than one most men of normal vision.

A great man, one whose name will live forever, but as modest as you like. No doubt he will be a great deal of money, but far above gold does he value his great invention.

They Liked Tall Feathers.

From the end of the eighteenth century up to the present feather became quite the rage for the fashionable woman's headgear.

A writer in the London Times of 1795 relates the following: "An elegant dame, there is a room set apart for the ladies to don their feathers, as it is impossible to wear them in any carriage with impunity, and they are accordingly removed on this account, and the doors are carried up to the ceiling. A well-dressed lady who nods her head, and says, 'I am a widow,' has a little tap upon the shoulder across the room without incommending the dangers. The ladies' feathers are now generally carried in the sword case at the back of the carriage."

Artists Flying.

The younger sons of the aristocracy are among the keenest recruits for the flying service of the Army and Navy. Among the younger members of the aristocracy who have taken up "pilots" certificates are Lord George Wesley, youngest son of the Duke of Cleveland, and Major Edward Arthur Grosvenor, the younger son of the first Duke of Westminster by his second marriage.

Both young men are in the army, and have taken out their certificates within a month of their first flights.

Step of Civilization.

There are but many stages of the famous rock of Gibraltar, but the greatest was the one sustained from the combined land and sea forces of France and Spain, 1779-81. For four years all the available resources of the science of the time were exhausted by the aspirants without success.

Under the inspiring leadership of Sir George Whitworth, he was besieged, and it is believed, more than half a mile in one of the most memorable sieges in all history.

Frank Davis, who recently visited Blairmore as coopter for the Canadian Bible Society, died suddenly at Cardston on Saturday last. Mr. Davis had been in a delicate state of health for some time past, being a sufferer from consumption. At the time of his demise he had been driving from the country towards Cardston when he suddenly collapsed in the buggy beside the driver, and yielded to the death reaper a short time after reaching town.

Candidates Must Declare Themselves

Every candidate who offers himself for election to the provincial legislature at the next election will be asked by the Temperance and Moral Reform League whether he is in favor of total prohibition for the province of Alberta, and whether he will use all influence to secure the abolition of the traffic in this province. Workers from the ranks of the league will visit every constituency in the province at election time and get signatures to a pledge list, to which the voters will be asked to support only those candidates who declare themselves in favor of the prohibition law. The answers of the different candidates on the stand they take will be sent for publication to every paper in the province.

It Pays To Advertise50,000 Bible Class
Men in Parade

This is one of the features of the fourteenth convention of the International Sunday School Association to be held in Chicago, June 29 to 30, 1914.

The fifty thousand men will all be bible students. Train loads of men are to go into Chicago for the parade. The Alberta delegation will be in the line. This parade is to be the greatest testimony to the dynamic influence of the bible the world has ever witnessed. It will also celebrate reaching the goal set before the International adult bible class committee, namely, 50,000 organized adult bible classes in America. These classes represent an army of over two million men and women.

Alberta's share of the fifty thousand classes is at least one hundred and fifty classes. There are ninety-five classes now enrolled in the office of the Alberta Sunday School Association, Calgary, and the general secretary, F. E. Werry, has sent out an appeal to all parts of the province asking for the enrollment of organized adult bible classes. All that is required to be numbered with the fifty thousand classes in America is to apply to Mr. Werry for an International certificate of recognition, but without this certificate a class cannot be counted.
